And, the 2nd August 1919.

No. 419-11.

[Read the Report of the Indian Cotton Commission, 1919.]

In their Resolution No. 203-583, dated the 23rd September 1917, the Government of India appointed a Committee to investigate the possibility of expanding the growth of long-stapled cotton in India. The terms of reference to the Committee were that it should examine the work which had been done in the various provinces as to the establishment of long-stapled cotton and report regarding the possibility of the extension of any methods which had led to success, that it should investigate the causes of failure where this had occurred and if it found the failure to have been due to agricultural, irrigation or economic causes or to administrative difficulties, that it should propose appropriate remedies. The Committee was also instructed to carry out a detailed study of local conditions in each cotton-growing tract, to ascertain the possibility of improving existing methods of growing and marketing and also of governing such matters and to report on the possibility of increasing the acreage of the cotton districts and generally of making any suggestions for the improvement of the cotton trade. Finally, the Committee was to submit recommendations in regard to the staff required and the organization necessary for the development of the extension of long-stapled cotton in areas which it considered suitable for that purpose.

It will of course be understood that the aforesaid position regarding trading with enemy countries is in no way affected by these modifications.

KNOWING.

The following alterations will be made in Board's Notification No. 13, dated 1st November 1912, published on page 1213—17 of the Port St. George Gazette, dated 6th December 1912, Part II—

For

"The strength of liquor weaker than 20 U.P. cannot be determined at any temperature below 50°F. To test the strength of such liquor at a lower temperature, it will be necessary to raise the temperature of the liquor until the time on the stem showing 20 just becomes visible under the surface of the liquor, noting the temperature and subtracting the factor found in column 12-13, so the case may be, against this temperature from 20.

The true strength of liquor weaker than 20 U.P. can only be determined at the strength of 20 U.P. at 50°F. To obtain the strength of weaker liquor than 20 U.P. the liquor must be sealed by artificial means until the 20 line on the stem just becomes visible under the surface of the liquor, the temperature noted and the proper correction made. Liquor of 20 U.P. would have to be cooled down to 50°F. before its strength could be determined."

And

"When the liquor to be tested is too weak to give an indication on the instrument at the prevailing temperature, it may be warmed by artificial means. When the liquor is too strong it may be cooled. In both cases the new temperature, and substance will be used in ascertaining the true strength from the tables."

Report of the Select Committee on the Madras Children Bill, with the Bill as amended by the Committee. 1918

Report of Select Committee, etc., to be presented to the Council of the Governor of Fort St. George for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations.

To

THE HONOURABLE THE COUNCIL OF THE GOVERNOR OF FORT ST. GEORGE FOR THE PURPOSE OF MAKING

LAWS AND REGULATIONS.

We, the undersigned members of the Select Committee appointed to consider the Madras Children Bill, have the honour to submit the following report to the Council.

1. We have received no representations from the public in regard to the Bill.

2. Before proceeding to a detailed examination of the clauses of the Bill we gave very careful consideration to two points which had already been noticed in the course of the debate in Council—namely, the application of the provisions of the Bill to girls and to beggars.

We have considered both of these under clause 19 of the Bill as in our view special treatment in the case of girls could only be provided for, if at all, where the girl in question had committed no actual offence. We at first considered that any such special procedure should be relegated to a proviso limiting the powers of Police officers and that the clause itself might remain unaltered; further consideration, however, suggested that any such proviso as could be drafted would lead to be unworkable and led to the conclusion that the problem would best be solved by the omission of the general authorisation of Police officers in sub-clause (1) leaving it to the Local Government by rule to confer the desired power upon specified persons whether Police officers or others.

In the case of beggars we were attracted by the reflection that the sentiment of the country perceives nothing objectionable in the arbitrary power of begging, and that, there being so far no provision for poor relief in India as in England, it would be in a sense acquiescent to inflict a penalty on the beggar. We observed that facilities exist under the City Police Act and Towns Improvement Act for the protection of objectionable begging accompanied by the exhibition of signs or defences, thus bringing the youthful offender in those respects within the purview of Part III of the Bill; while cases of begging from destitution are covered by sub-clause 1 (a) of clause 23. On mature consideration we therefore decided that sub-clause (a) of clause 23 should be entirely omitted.

4. The further amendments we have made in the Bill are mainly designed to secure precision and uniformity of wording and a simple and logical arrangement of its provisions. The alterations are therefore principally verbal.

5. We have made a technical addition to the preamble. On an investigation of the facts we concluded that there is no necessity to circumscribe the extent clause [clause 1 (3)] or to make provision for the gradual introduction of the Act, provided that care is taken to examine exactly what enactment will be required and what will be available on the date of introduction of the Act. Nothing corresponding to the proviso in section 12 of the Reformatory Schools Act is required.

6. Clause 2.—In the definition of 'industrial' schools we have decided explicitly to include agricultural schools.

7. Clause 4.—Subdivisional Magistrates have been specifically included and a distinction drawn between salaried and Honorary Presidency Magistrates.

8. Clause 5 has been slightly amended in conformity with section 349 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1938.

9. Clause 8.—We have made provision where practicable for inspection by women. Under clause 27 we also considered the feasibility of prescribing the appointment of women associates in courts for girls but decided that this was impracticable.

10. Clause 10 was amended in conformity with the Madras Medical Registration Act, 1924.

11. Clause 14.—We are strongly of opinion that the power of bail should unless for exceptional reasons be made obligatory and have revised the clause accordingly.

12. Clause 16.—As sections 61 and 62 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1938, embody the principle involved in the second sub-clause, that portion has been deleted.

13. Clause 21.—We regarded the wording of this clause as unnecessarily involved and have revised it in a simplified form.

14. Clause 22.—We have made certain rearrangements and deleted the proviso to sub-clause (1).

15. Clause 31.—We have considered the criticism advanced in the Council debate that no provision is made in the clause for action to the parent but think this may best be relegated to the rules to be issued.

16. Clauses 33 & 34.—We regard these clauses as so alike in subject that we have combined them in one.

17. Clause 37.—We considered the proposal that the constitution of juvenile courts should be laid down in the Act but concluded that this course would be impracticable and that such provisions should be relegated to the rules. As this clause appeared to be unique in character, we constituted it a separate part of the Bill.

18. Clauses 40 to 45 have been re-arranged.

19. Clause 42.—This clause was criticised as defective both in arrangement and in subject-matter. We regard some of the subjects for rules laid down in the clause as unnecessary and have omitted them in consequence while we have added such subjects as the inspection of uncertified institutions, the class of persons who may be authorised to act under one revised version of clause 29 (1), the punishment of inmates of certified schools, procedure in courts under this Act before other than juvenile courts, and the time limit for appeals under clause 45.

20. Sir Gordon Fraser, who was appointed a member of the Committee, was unable to attend the first two meetings and in consequence tendered his resignation, which was accepted.

MINUTE OF DISSENT.

I consider it absolutely essential that the Bill should contain adequate provisions to prevent juvenile smoking which is, unfortunately, increasing in several parts of the province. It is not desirable to postpone the consideration of that question any longer. The English Children Act, 1904, on which the present Bill has been modelled, contains provisions in section 29 of that Act prohibiting the sale of tobacco to persons apparently under the age of 15 years. It is also necessary to prohibit the sale of instruments to minor children as is done by sections 119 and 120 of the English Children Act.

2. It is desirable to incorporate in the Bill adequate provisions as to prevent cruelty to children as done by section 12 of the English Act.

3. The success of the present Bill largely depends on the establishment and maintenance of reformatory and industrial schools, whether by the Government or by private bodies or individuals. Clause 5 (1) of the Bill provides for the establishment and maintenance of such schools by the Government and clause 5 (2) of the Bill provides for the grant of a certificate of fitness in the case of schools not so established or maintained by the Government. To encourage the establishment or maintenance of such schools, it is necessary to afford financial assistance to private bodies or individuals, willing to establish or maintain them. Under section 72 of the English Act, it is incumbent on the State to make a contribution to private institutions. It is quite necessary to have similar provisions in the present Bill.

4. Clause 29 (4) of the Bill makes provision for a person apparently under the age of 14 years¹⁸ who frequents the company of any reputed thief¹⁹ while section 53, clause (f) of the English Act provides for persons who "frequent the company of any reputed thief or of any common or reputed prostitute."²⁰ I do not find sufficient reason for the latter portion of section 53, clause (f) of the English Act, having been omitted from the present Bill. It is quite necessary to have similar provisions in the Bill.

5. As the Bill is also applicable to girls, it is necessary to safeguard their interests in a similar manner. The English Act provides for the case of a girl "who is living or residing in a house or the part of a house used by any prostitute for the purpose of prostitution or is otherwise living in circumstances calculated to cause, encourage or favour the seduction or prostitution of the child."²¹ It is quite necessary to incorporate similar provisions in the present Bill.

6. The English Children Act was generally followed in the framing of the present Bill; but the conditions of this country are different in several respects. It is desirable to provide for the association of non-official agency in the administration of the various measures provided in the Bill.

7. If it is considered necessary to make a reference to the Government of India and obtain their administrative approval for incorporating in the Bill any of the above provisions, I would suggest that early steps might be taken by the Local Government for that purpose.

Provided that the Governor in Council may, on application of the managers of the industrial school, by order transfer the child to a certified reformatory school.

(4) Where a young person has been ordered by a court to give security under section 105 or section 113 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, and has failed to do so, the court which passed the order may order such young person to be sent to a reformatory school.

(5) Where prior to the commencement of this Act a youthful offender has been sentenced to transportation or imprisonment, the Governor in Council may direct that in lieu of undergoing or completing such sentence, if under the age of sixteen years, he shall be sent to a certified reformatory school; and thereupon the offender shall be subject to all the provisions of this Act as if he had been originally sentenced to detention in a certified reformatory school.

24. The order in pursuance of which the youthful offender

Period of detention. or child is sent to a certified school shall specify the time for which the youthful offender or child is to be detained in the school, being—

(b) in the case of a child sent to an industrial school, such time as the court may think proper for the teaching and training of the child, but not in any case extending beyond the time when the child will, in the opinion of the court, attain the age of sixteen years.

26. (1) Where a child or young person is convicted of an offence punishable with fine and the court is of opinion that the case would be best met by the imposition of a fine, whether with or without any other punishment, the court may in any case, and shall if the offender is a child, order that the fine be paid by the parent or guardian of the child or young person, unless the court is satisfied that the parent or guardian cannot be found or that he has not concurred in the commission of the offence by neglecting to exercise due care of the child or young person.

the offender to be kept in safe custody in such place or manner as it thinks fit and shall report the case for the orders of the Governor in Council.

(2) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 22, the Governor in Council may order any such child or young person to be detained in such place and on such conditions as he thinks fit, and while so detained the child or young person shall be deemed to be in legal custody:

 charged with any offence is tried by any court, and the court is satisfied of his guilt, the court shall take into consideration the manner in which, under the provisions of this or any other Act enabling the court to deal with the case, the case should be dealt with, namely, whether,

(a) by discharging the offender after due admonition; or

(b) by committing the offender to the custody of his parent, guardian, or any adult relative, on such parent, guardian, or relative executing a bond to be responsible for his good behaviour; or

(c) by so discharging or committing the offender and placing him under the supervision of a person named by the court; or

(d) by sending the offender to an industrial school; or

(e) by sending the offender to a reformatory school; or

(f) by ordering the offender to be whipped; or

(g) by ordering the offender to pay a fine; or

(h) by ordering the parent or guardian of the offender to pay a fine; or

(i) where the offender is a young person, by sentencing him to imprisonment; or

(j) by dealing with the case in any other manner in which it may legally be dealt with:

Ct. English Children Act, 1906, section 107.

Provided that nothing in this section shall be construed as authorizing the court to deal with any case in any manner in which it could not deal with the case apart from this section.

PART IV.

Children and young persons not being justified offenders.

Cf. English Children Act, 1908, section 55 (1).

28. (1) In any area in which the Governor in Council shall direct that this section shall apply, any person authorized in this behalf in accordance with rules made by the Governor in Council may bring before a court any person apparently under the age of fourteen years who—

(a) is found wandering and not having any home or settled place of abode, or visible means of subsistence, or is found wandering and having no parent or guardian, or a parent or guardian who does not exercise proper guardianship; or

(b) is found destitute, not being an orphan and having both parents or his surviving parent, or in the case of an illegitimate child his mother, undergoing transportation or imprisonment; or

(c) is under the care of a parent or guardian who, by reason of criminal or drunken habits, is unfit to have the care of the child; or

(d) frequents the company of any reputed thief;

and the court before which a person is brought as coming within one of these descriptions, if satisfied on inquiry of that fact, and that it is expedient so to deal with him, may order him to be sent to a certified industrial school.

Cf. English Children Act, 1908, section 56, subsection (1).

(2) Where under this Act a court is empowered to order a child to be sent to a certified industrial school the court, in lieu of ordering him to be so sent, may make an order for the commitment of the child to suitable custody in the prescribed manner until he attains the age of sixteen years, or for any shorter period.

(3) Any police officer or other person authorized by the Governor in Council in this behalf may bring before a court any person apparently of the age of fourteen or fifteen years so circumstanced that if he were a child he would come within one or other of the descriptions mentioned in sub-section (1) and the court if satisfied on inquiry of that fact and that it is expedient so to deal with him, may make an order for his committal to suitable custody in the prescribed manner until he attains the age of sixteen years, or for any shorter period.

(4) The court which makes an order committing a child or young person to suitable custody under this section may, in addition, order that the child or young person be placed under the supervision of a person named by the court.

30. Where the parent or guardian of

Truancy of child. a child proves to a court that he is unable to control the child, and that he desires the child to be sent to a certified industrial school the court, if satisfied on inquiry that it is expedient so to deal with the child, and that the parent or guardian understands the results which will follow, may order him to be sent to any such school.

PART V.

Maintenance and treatment of persons sent to certified schools or committed to suitable custody.

31. (1) The court which makes an order for the detention of a youthful offender or child in a certified school or for the committal of a child or young person to suitable custody under this Act may make an order on the parent or other person liable to maintain the youthful offender, child or young person to contribute to his maintenance, if able to do so, in the prescribed manner.

(2) Any order made under this section may from time to time be varied by the court.

(3) The persons liable to maintain a youthful offender, child or young person shall for the purposes of sub-section (1) include in the case of illegitimacy his putative father:

Provided that where the youthful offender, child or young person is illegitimate and an order for his maintenance has been made under section 433 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1893, the court shall not ordinarily make an order for contribution against the putative father but may order the whole or any part of the payments accruing due under the and order for maintenance to such person or persons as may be named, to be applied by him or them towards the maintenance of the youthful offender, young person or child.

(4) Any order under this section may be enforced in the same manner as an order under section 478 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1894.

Cf. English Children Act, 1908, section 52.
